

WHY I AM RUNNING:

Local elections are important. I believe voters should have a choice and know what that choice is.

As the election deadline approached, I became aware that the candidate I was ready to support for District 5 Supervisor had decided not to run after all. With little time to meet the filing deadline, I filed for reelection with the Election Department, quite literally in the last hour.

Why didn't I just let my opponent have a chance?

I learned when she ran against me four years ago that her core values are vastly different from my own. She knows this to be true, but she works hard to disguise it.

As most of you know, I am a Republican. I use my core conservative values every day to guide my decisions and actions on a personal level and in my work for the County – YOU.

Mine is a strong conservative voice, and I strive to keep government working for you, keeping your interests the first and foremost priority.

It has truly been an honor to represent you since 2007. Being re-elected every four years is a testament to the level of trust and approval you have placed in me.

In this new election cycle, I did not want to disappoint constituents by stepping down without a solid choice.

I sincerely Thank You and ask for your vote, once again, on or before June 2nd.

“I’m not just ‘in office’, or someone that looks for recognition, – I am deeply invested in our county’s future, and I offer steady, honest, experienced leadership.” - Brian

MORE ON WHY I AM RUNNING:

My ancestors came to Amador County from Italy in the 1860's. Over years they worked hard building a life here.

My ancestors worked the land to provide produce and were cattle ranchers. They contributed to their neighbors and raised their families, along with other early families, in making Amador County a special place.

I will say it again: ‘Amador County is second to none.’

While some may point to my years in office as a 'need for change', I would ask you this, 'Do you really want change and what kind of change are you looking for?'

My years of service have given me an unmatched understanding of our county's unique needs. If re-elected, I will continue to work hard to guide our County in the right direction to keep the lifestyle we all enjoy.
